By copy of this message I'm forwarding to Pat Port, our counterpart who works with EPA 9. She should be able to provide you appropriate contact.

Unfortunately, there's not yet much analytical data up on the Web yet.

Hello, this is Roseria Duwyenie, the BIA, Navajo Region, Environmental Coordinator for the Gold King Mine spill on Navajo Indian lands. Thank you for the report and the information. However, do you have access to the USGS, USEPA Region 9 and NNEPA analytical reports as well as the risk assessments currently being provided by ATSDR? I have been searching the websites and do not find this information. As the information becomes available, I am relaying it to my Regional Director and the BIA NRO IC Team.

Currently, BIA, NRO is establishing livestock water distribution points from Shiprock, NM to Aneth, Utah along the San Juan River corridor to provide water to Navajo livestock owners. As of today, there is one up and running watering point at Upper Fruitland, NM and we should have a second one operational by the end of today at Shiprock, NM. BIA NRO plans to have four more site operational by the weekend.
